READY FOR CONTESTS

INFLUX OF HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS TO BEGIN TONIGHT.

TO START AT 9 A. M.

First Night Program to Consist of Dramatics and Tableaux.—Friday Is Big Day.

Maryville prepared today for an invasion.

Beginning tomorrow morning, the city will be host for three days to a small army of high school students from all parts of Northwest Missouri, come to take part in the nineteenth annual Northwest Missouri high school contests, under auspices of the State Teachers College.

Seventy-one schools will be represented by some 1,478 students and accompanying teachers, not to mention the parents and friends who will merely "come along."

Six schools sought to make late entries and had to be refused by the College authorities.

The College and Maryville Chamber of Commerce, cooperating in housing the contestants, found places for all of them, but there is no surplus for a "visitors' list." Any person having rooms available for this purpose still may list them.

The Vanguard Tonight.

The first of the contestants will arrive in Maryville tonight. About fifty are expected on the Wabash and Burlington trains this evening, and five cars have been slated by the Chamber of Commerce to meet each train.

If weather and roads remain good, the great bulk of the contestants probably will come by private automobile, and this makes it hard to estimate how many will arrive by train and when. Tomorrow night, however, is expected to bring the largest number of the visiting high school students, and the Chamber of Commerce is preparing to transport 700. About 100 cars will be needed.

The Chamber of Commerce requests that business men decorate the windows of their stores in the college colors, green and white.

Headquarters for general information has been changed this year from the Chamber of Commerce rooms downtown to the office of M. E. Seleeman, manager of the contests, in Room 212 of the College administration building.

Outside this office, members of the girls pep squad of the College will be stationed to answer the bulk of the inquiries. If they are "stumped" by any questions, the applicant will be directed inside the office, where Miss Katherine Helwig and Miss Carrie Hopkins will be prepared to answer anything.

Free Check Stands.

The Women's Athletic Association will operate free check stands for the contestants, both in the main building and at the gymnasium.

Some of the schools bringing large delegations will be assigned rooms at the College as headquarters.

Elmo Man Arrested on a Liquor Charge

Denzel Kinman Brought to Maryville Yesterday, Charged With Possession of "Hootch."

Denzel Kinman, giving his age as 21, was arrested last evening by O. V. Nuckels, deputy sheriff, at Elmo on a charge of possession of intoxicating liquor. Kinman was brought to Maryville by Sheriff L. B. Campbell. He was confined in the county jail this morning pending disposition of the charge. He was alleged to have had a half keg of "hootch."

Paralysis Fatal to Nicholas Palmerton

Burlington Junction Resident Died Last Friday Night.—Buried at Quitman Monday.

Nicholas A. Palmerton, died last Friday night at his home in Burlington Junction, death following a stroke of paralysis.

The funeral was held at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon at the First Christian Church, conducted by the Rev. Frank Gillahan. Burial was at the Quitman cemetery in charge of the Quitman Masonic Lodge of which Mr. Palmerton was a member.

Mr. Palmerton was 77 years old. He was born October 3, 1851, at Canton, Ill. He was married to Miss Martha Rache. They lived in the community of Quitman before moving to Burlington Junction several years ago.

Besides his widow, Mr. Palmerton left eight children. They are: Mrs. Nellie Schroyer, Pueblo, Colo.; Sid Palmerton, Council Bluffs, Ia.; Mrs. Clara Kelly, Mrs. Ora Irvine, Edwin Palmerton, Mrs. Mollie Dawson and Miss Dorothy Palmerton, all of Burlington Junction. He leaves a son George Palmerton, by a former marriage. Three of the children are dead.

Medical Associatoin O. K.s College Here

Institution Is Placed on Approved List for Work Preliminary to Study of Medicine.

The State Teachers College here has been placed on the approved list of colleges of arts and sciences and junior colleges by the Council on Medical Education and Hospitals of the American Medical association, according to word received yesterday by Uel W. Lamkin, president of the College.

The minimum requirement for admission to an acceptable medical college is a four-year high school education or its full equivalent and two years in a college of arts and science approved by the Council on Medical Education and Hospitals.

$36,101 CITY TAXES PAID

ANNUAL REPORT SHOWS AMOUNT OF 1927 COLLECTIONS.

$2,136 IS DELINQUENT

Bulk of Payments Made on Real Estate.—Suits for Back Taxes to Be Filed.

According to the yearly tax report of Mayor W. O. Garrett, ex-officio tax collector, $36,101.24 of 1927 city taxes have been collected. The report was accepted at an adjourned session of the city council last night.

The report showed delinquent taxes amounted to $2,136.92; supplemental charges, $18.42; erroneous assessments, $56.36; and penalties collected, $141.25.

In 1926, tax collections totaled $30,976.38, according to the last year's report, and delinquent taxes amounted to $1,166.84.

The delinquent tax book on real estate for the last five years was approved by the council. By a previous order, owners of real estate on which taxes are delinquent will be notified that suit for back taxes for this period will be brought.

The 1927 report of the tax collections revealed that $26,109.54 was paid on real estate. Merchants taxes totaled $1,388.98; personal taxes amounted to $5,561.72 and bank taxes paid were $2,899.75.

The city council adjourned to the first regular meeting in May.

Mrs. Eunice Graves Dies This Morning

End Comes Suddenly to Resident of Maryville Since 1872—Four Children Survive.

Mrs. Eunice Graves, 77 years old, died of heart disease at her home, Lawn avenue, at 8 o'clock this morning.

Mrs. Graves had been in failing health for sometime, but had arisen this morning and ate breakfast as usual. Shortly after breakfast, as she was sitting in a chair looking out of the window, she told her daughter, Miss Bess Graves, that she "felt queer." She was put to bed and a physician called. She died in less than a half hour.

Mrs. Graves, a native of Carlisle, N. Y., moved to Maryville with her father, J. N. Donaldson, and her sister, in 1872. In 1873 she was married to Henry Graves. She has been a resident of Maryville since 1872. Her husband died in 1899.

Mrs. Graves is survived by four children: W. E. Graves, Kansas City; Mrs. F. E. Wiley, Junction City, Kan.; Miss Bess Graves, Maryville; and Eugene Graves, whose address is unknown.

She was a member of the Methodist church.

Funeral arrangements will not be completed until the arrival of Mrs. Wiley and W. E. Graves.

Garments Made Here to Go to Porto Rico

Local Chapter of Red Cross Receives Shipping Orders for Layettes and Dresses.

Five layettes and ten girls' gingham dresses which were sewed by the American Legion Auxiliary, the Young Ladies society of the Presbyterian church and Mrs. Fred Diss, for the Nodaway county Red Cross chapter, will be sent to the Red Cross at San Juan, Porto Rico.

Fails on Highway Damage Suit.

Columbia, Mo., April 25.—A jury in circuit court here yesterday denied Miss Gladys Smart damages of any sort in her $25,000 suit against J. L. Thompson, state highway contractor. A motion for a new trial was filed. Miss Smart was injured on Highway No. 63 last September when she turned her car into a ditch to avoid a barrier placed in the road by highway employees.

BENNETT DIES OF PNEUMONIA

AMERICA LOSES ONE OF GREATEST AIRMEN.

LINDY'S FLIGHT FUTILE

Serum of No Avail; Tragedy Causes Widespread Sorrow in Quebec and Elsewhere.

Quebec, Que., April 25.—Floyd Bennett died in the Jeffrey Hale Hospital today of pneumonia.

America lost one of her greatest airmen and the whole world mourned one of the pioneers who played a conspicuous part in the stirring aviation feats of the past year.

Bennett died at 10:45 a. m. He died in the cause to which he had devoted his life. Although in ill health, he sacrificed himself to fly with relief from Detroit for the transatlantic plane Bremen on Greenly Island.

Bennett's body will be taken to New York on the Canadian Pacific train that leaves at 1:30 p. m. tomorrow and is due to arrive in New York at 8 a. m. Friday.

Too Weak to Resist.

Double pneumonia developed. The man who piloted Commander Richard E. Byrd to the North Pole and risked his life in other daring feats was unable to combat it in his weakened condition.

The entire world was concerned. Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, America's idol, made a magnificent effort to save him by flying from New York to Quebec, more than 500 miles, in record-breaking time with serum to combat the disease. It failed, the serum proving useless for the type of pneumonia with which Bennett was afflicted.

His commander and friend, Byrd, came from Boston to stand by him. Bennett smiled when Byrd was permitted a brief look at him and promised he would be well in time to go with Byrd on his greatest exploit—the projected flight over the South Pole this fall.

Byrd was deeply affected by Bennett's death. The two men were like brothers.

Wife Ill Also.

The flyer's wife, who came to be at his bedside, was taken ill with tonsilitis and was confined to the same hospital when the end came.

Word that Bennett was dying was issued from the hospital at 10 a. m., at which time Col. Lindbergh prepared to return to Mitchell Field, disconsolate over the failure of his mission.

The fraternity of the air which drew Bennett on his fatal flight to aid the Bremen's crew, which still is weather-bound on Greenly Island, brought Colonel Lindbergh to the aid of Bennett and Commander Byrd to his former pilot, too late to help.

Serum Is Useless.

Dr. W. H. Delany, superintendent of the hospital, who announced Bennett's death officially at 11 a. m., said that the serum brought by Lindbergh was useless against "Number 3 pneumonia" which finally caused the flyer's death.

Early today it was known by those in attendance on Bennett that he could live but a few hours.

Mrs. Bennett's condition naturally was aggravated by her worry over her husband.

Wife Taken to Bedside.

Despite her severe tonsilitis, Mrs. Bennett was taken to her husband's bedside this morning, shortly before he lapsed into unconsciousness.

M. H. S. to Close for Events in Afternoon

School Begins at 8 o'clock Thursday and Friday Mornings, Combining Afternoon Classes.

The Maryville high school will close during the afternoons on Thursday and Friday to give the students a chance to see the Northwest Missouri contest events at the State Teachers College.

The morning session of school will begin at 8 o'clock, thirty minutes earlier, the activity period at 10:40 o'clock will be dropped, and the time divided in order to take care of the three afternoon periods as well. The last class will be out shortly after 12 o'clock.

I. J. Phipps Enters Race for Treasurer

Maryville Man Files Declaration for Democratic Nomination.—Has Lived Here 20 Years.

I. J. Phipps, 335 East Second street, today filed his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for county treasurer with Fred Wright, county clerk.

Mr. Phipps was born at Barnard, in this county. He later moved to Grant City, where he received his education in the public schools. About twenty years ago he moved to Maryville and has been engaged in the garage business.

Mr. Phipps' family consists of three children, Treva, Paris and Robert.

He stated this afternoon that he never has held a public office.

Fall Is Improving Physicians Announce

Former Cabinet Member May Be Able to Leave Sanitarium in Month or Two.

Pasadena, Calif., April 25.—Albert B. Fall, former Secretary of the Interior, should be able to leave the Las Encinas Sanitarium here in a month or two, his physicians declared today.

The former cabinet member has shown marked improvement in health the past few days.

Last month, El Paso physicians declared Fall had but six months more to live.

"Mr. Fall is responding to rest and treatment in an encouraging manner," E. B. Isett, business manager of the sanitarium said. "While it is impossible to state that a complete recovery will be effected, it is expected he will have so regained his health as to be able to leave the Sanitarium in a month or two.

A NEW HONOR VOTED LAMKIN

S. T. C. PRESIDENT MADE DIRECTOR OF WORLD FEDERATION.

ONLY THREE IN U. S.

Local Educator Succeeds Idaho Man.—Next Meeting of Board in Geneva, Switzerland.

Uel W. Lamkin, president of the State Teachers College, has been elected as a member of the board of directors of the World Federation of Education Associations, according to a letter he received yesterday from C. H. Williams, of Columbia, Mo., secretary.

Mr. Lamkin will succeed Dr. Walter R. Siders, superintendent of the Pocatello, Idaho, schools, who has resigned as a member of the board to become field secretary of the federation with headquarters in New York City. Lamkin will fill out Dr. Siders' unexpired term.

There are seventeen members on the board and three are from the United States. The other two in addition to Mr. Lamkin are Miss Selma M. Borchardt of Washington, D. C., and Miss Annie Carleton Woodward of Somerville, Mass.

Other educators on the board include two from Canada, three from England, two from Scotland, two from India, two from China, one from Ireland, one from Japan and one from Germany.

The election of Mr. Lamkin was by votes of the members of the board. The board meets every two years and its next meeting will be held in Geneva, Switzerland, in 1929. The last meeting was held at Toronto, Canada.

It is considered a high honor in educational circles to be a member of the board of the federation, and the appointment is recognition of Mr. Lamkin's standing in these circles.

Planning Big Day at Opening of Creamery

Ravenwood C. of C. Appoints Committees and Invites Other Towns on May 1.

The Ravenwood Chamber of Commerce has appointed committees to complete arrangements for the opening of the Ravenwood Cooperative Creamery Tuesday, May 1.

Four committees were named. They follow:

Speakers: I. A. Goodson, F. H. Burns, Mark Heflin.

Grounds: W. A. Conn, F. P. Loch, W. G. Wygal.

Advertising: A. V. Gates, H. J. Beedle, K. M. Harker.

Finance: F. P. Ross, B. B. Holtman, D. M. Bishop.

The new enterprise was sponsored by the citizens and farming community of Ravenwood. It is now housed in a new building and churning a fine commercial product from the raw material produced at home.

The new factory was founded for the benefit of the milk producers in and about the territory of Ravenwood who desire full value of the finished product from the cream they produce.

At the opening next week, not only will the creamery be in operation, but the best methods of handling cream for the best results will be discussed.

The Ravenwood Chamber of Commerce is extending an invitation to surrounding towns to attend the opening. A basket dinner will be held at noon.

Two Executors Named.

Mrs. Matilda J. Mozingo and George W. Mozingo yesterday were appointed by Judge Jesse F. Robertson of the probate court as executors of the estate of their husband and father, Samuel Mozingo, who died April 1.

HOOVER LEAD IS INCREASED

SMITH'S MARGIN OVER FIELD ALSO IS WIDENED.

VICTORY CLAIMS MADE

Secretary's Showing Better Than Expected in Ohio and Massachusetts, Loses Oklahoma.

Paul R. Mallon
United Press Staff Correspondent.

Washington, Apr. 25.—Herbert Hoover's leadership in the Republican presidential race was materially bolstered and Gov. Al Smith was pushed further out ahead in the Democratic contest by yesterday's primary and convention results, as tabulated today in six states.

The results indicate the following lineup of delegates already selected for the Republican national convention:

Herbert Hoover, 252; Frank O. Lowden, 191; Charles E. Curtis, 43; President Coolidge, 17; George W. Norris, 27; William E. Borah, 11; Charles G. Dawes, 1; Charles E. Hughes, 1; uninstructed and doubtful, 276; necessary for choice 545.

The Democratic results show: Alfred E. Smith, 427; Atlee Pomerene, 48; James Reed, 36; Walter George, 28; W. A. Ayres, 20; Gilbert M. Hitchcock, 16; uninstructed, 49; necessary for choice 734.

Gains Made Yesterday.

United Press dispatches indicate the following gains by the candidates in the Republican primaries and conventions yesterday.

Hoover—Ohio 31, and Massachusetts 30 to 35.

Lowden or Curtis—Oklahoma 20.

Uninstructed—Ohio 20, Pennsylvania 79, Nevada 11 and Massachusetts 4 to 9.

The totals are based upon a minimum number of 30 Hoover delegates in Massachusetts with 9 uninstructed.

The 20 Ohio uninstructed are pledged to the late Senator Willis but are expected to be voted in convention for vice-president Gharles G. Dawes, Lowden, Curtis and Watson.

Smith—Pennsylvania 66 and Massachusetts 36.

Pomerene—Ohio 20.

Ayres—Kansas 20.

Uninstructed—Pennsylvania 11.

Can't Stop Hoover, Is Claim.

The Hoover victory in Ohio measured just what his campaign managers had claimed, but in Massachusetts he had expected only 28 delegates instead of the 30 to 35 he received. The Oklahoma result was something of a set-back, as Hoover had expected at least to split the 20 delegates there and receive 10 for himself.

The Nevada result had no significance reflecting on any of the leading candidates, as that state usually has sent uninstructed delegations to the Republican convention. The Pennsylvania uninstructed delegation of 79 will be under the leadership of Secretary of Treasury Mellon and Senator-elect Vare, but Hoover is expected to get many of the votes no matter who Mellon decides to support.

The results were so encouraging that Hooer-for-President headquarters here issued a statement early today claiming "nothing can now stop the nomination of Hoover."

Smith Showing Surprises.

In the Democratic race Smith gained even more than the actual number of delegates instructed for him. In Ohio he was leading Pomerene in the preferential vote, although his name was not even printed on the ballot. He is expected to get the larger share of Ohio's delegation eventually. In Pennsylvania his managers expected only 60 delegates instead of the 66 he got. He was opposed there by dry Democrats under leadership of Vance McCormick, Harrisburg publisher and former Democratic national committeeman.

The solid Massachusetts delegation of 36 was given him as had been expected.

In the Kansas Democratic convention, a contest between Smith and Reed was avoided when the delegation induced Representative Ayres, Democrat, Kansas, to enter the race as a favorite son.

His Mission Failing, "Lindy" Starts Back

Quebec, Apr. 25.—His mission a failure despite his splendid flight, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh left the flying field here at 11:22 a. m., for the return trip to New York.

Lindbergh was deeply affected by the death of Bennett, to save whose life he made a five hundred mile flight with serum from New York to Quebec.

Lindbergh waited for word that his comrade of the air had passed on, and then left the plains of Abraham Flying Field and headed southward at terrific speed.

There was a large crowd at the airdrome. The snow and the crowd hampered the flyer. Lindbergh finally got off, and circling once, zoomed low over Quebec as though in salute to the passing of Bennett. Then he sped toward New York, where he was due to arrive about 3 p. m.

DIES IN NEW SPEED QUEST

CAUSED BY BLOW-OUT

Car Turns Over, Hurling Driver to Death on Florida Sand as Tire Gives Way.

Daytona Beach, Fla., April 25.—Frank Lockhart, daredevil racing car driver was killed today in an attempt to set a new world's speed record on the Daytona Beach course.

His Blackhawk racer broke from its course as it roared past the grandstand at 200 miles an hour. It somersaulted twice. Lockhart was thrown clear the second time.

His limp form was picked up, but the veteran American driver succumbed before reaching a hospital. Physicians said his skull was fractured and his chest crushed.

Wife Sees Accident.

The racer's wife was said to have witnessed the fatal accident.

Scores of spectators who got up early to see Lockhart try to surpass the record made by Ray Keech last Sunday—207.55 miles per hour—narrowly escaped death as the slim black car crashed.

One eye-witness account of the crash said the Stutz special came thundering up the beach. Suddenly sand sprayed out from its rear wheels as it swerved. Then it completely turned turtle in the air. Some said it rose as high as twenty feet above the beach, then fell on its side.

Again it bounced from the sand, this time throwing Lockhart clear of the driver's seat to his death.

Rear Tire Blows Out.

Examination of marks on the beach afterwards showed the right tire apparently had blown out, sending the car into the swerve.

For a distance of 1,000 feet the car slid sideways on the hard packed beach. Lockhart apparently then succeeded in straightening out his car temporarily, as for a distance of 500 feet the tracks were straight. Then came the swerve again, ending in the car being hurled into the air for a distance of twenty feet, landing and rebounding again. Mrs. Lockhart was among the first to reach her husband.

Only Partial Use of Hand.

Indianapolis, April 25.—Frank Lockhart, killed at Daytona Beach today, was attempting to set a new world's speed record without the full use of his left hand, F. E. Moskovics, president of the Stutz Motor Company said here today.

"We counseled against his going to Daytona at this time," Miskovics said, "but it was in his blood to get that record. His hand was still weak from the injury he sustained in the accident in his other trial for the record at Daytona."

Says Hoover Can Begin His Speech

Washington, April 25.—Secretary Hoover is now free to begin work on his speech of acceptance, Senator Moses, Republican, New Hampshire, declared here today in a statement analyzing Hoover's victories in yesterday's primaries. Moses predicted Hoover certainly would be nominated and probably on the first ballot.

Coolidge Sends His Sympathy to Greece

Washington, April 25. — President Coolidge today sent a message of sympathy to the President of Greece on the occasion of the recent earthquake in Corinth. The message said: "I have learned with deep regret of the destruction of Corinth and of the accompanying loss of life. The American people join me in an expression of sincere sympathy."

CAN'T COME IN BREMEN

CREW TO ABANDON TRANSATLANTIC PLANE.

TIRE OF LONG WAIT

Relief Ship to Bring Two German Flyers and Irish Companion On to Canada.

Murray Bay, Que., Apr. 25.—The crew of the Bremen has decided to abandon the plane which carried them westward across the Atlantic from Ireland to Greenly Island, and to return to civilization in the relief plane which flew to them from Detroit.

Word reached Murray Bay this afternoon, apparently from one of the crew, that the difficulties in getting off from Greenly Island in the Bremen were too great, and that Major Fitzmaurice and his comrades, impatient to go to Quebec and the United States, had decided to fly with Bernt Balchen in the relief plane.

Destination Not Decided.

The destination of the relief plane, bringing the flyers from Greenly Island, remains to be determined, and the departure was held up pending a decision.

The ice at St. Agnes lake, near here is soft and honeycombed. It is covered with three inches of snow, and the relief plane, but not the Bremen, might be able to make a safe landing.

If Balchen takes the transatlantic flyers to Quebec, they will land at the St. Hubert Airdrome. Another possible destination is Carierville, near Montreal.

A landing certainly will be made on Canadian soil, for the relief plane is equipped with skiis. Baron Huenefeld and Koehl were understood to have been anxious to proceed directly to New York, but it would be impractical if the relief plane brought off the airmen.

Ill Luck Continues.

Montreal, Apr. 25.—Ill luck today continued to follow the Bremen, in which Baron Gunther von Huenefeld, Captain Herman Koehl and Major James Fitzmaurice made the first westward crossing of the Atlantic.

A heavy snow swirling through the upper St. Lawrence region, swept into Greenly Island overnight. Strong winds, laden with snow, were blowing.

To add to this new obstacle, the masters of the Bremen had found that the wheels would not serve for a take off from Greenly. This was developed, according to Clarke City dispatches early today, from a tryout yesterday. Skiis, it was said, are required, and none is available at Greenly.

Three Alternatives.

If the Bremen cannot leave Greenly Island, then its crew faces these alternatives:

1—Going in aboard the rescue plane of the Ford company.

2—Waiting for skiis to be taken into Greenly.

3—Waiting for seasonable weather to clear the snow—a scheme regarded as fantastic since this would mean a long wait on the island.

WOULD GIVE BREMEN CREW HIGH HONOR

Bill Is Presented to Congress to Authorize Conferring of Distinguished Flying Cross.

Washington, April 25.—A bill authorizing President Coolidge to confer the distinguished flying cross upon Captain Herman Koehl, Maj. James Fitzmaurice and Baron Gunther von Huenefeld, the crew of the Bremen, was introduced today by Senator Reed, Republican, Pa.

A special act of Congress would be required to authorize the presentation, since the law creating the medal provides that only American army and navy fliers are eligible. It is the highest award the United States can bestow for aeronautical achievement.

Reed's resolution states that the German and Irish airmen should be given official recognition by this country for their westward flight across the Atlantic. The decoration has never yet been presented to a foreigner.

Representative James, Republican, Michigan, introduced a similar bill in the House.

Ira Newlon of Clearmont was in Maryville yesterday.

Charles Short of Burlington Junction Junction was in town yesterday on business.

The Campaign Log

APRIL 25
By United Press

The Ohio primaries resulted in Secretary of Comerce Hoover winning 31 of the 51 delegates to the Republican national convention. Governor Alfred E. Smith won the Democratic endorsement by about 5 to 1 over former Senator Atlee Pomerene and Governor Vic Donahey.

Returns from half the precincts in the Massachusetts presidential preference primaries showed Secretary of Commerce Hoover to have won about 90 per cent of the Republican votes and Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York to have won about 95 per cent of the Democratic votes.

Democratic leaders in Pennsylvania conceded Governor Smith would have 66 of the state's 76 Democratic delegates to the national convention after the preferential primaries yesterday. The Republican delegation will be divided although Secretary Hoover's name was written on the ballots to a much greater extent than any other candidate.

Oklahoma Republicans in convention agreed to vote for Frank O. Lowden or Senator Charles Curtis of Kansas at the Kansas City convention.

Kansas Democrats decided to vote for Representative W. A. Ayres as the Democratic presidential candidate at the Houston convention.

Hoover headquarters in Washington, as a result of yesterday's primaries and conventions, issued a statement saying that the Commerce Secretary's nomination at Kansas City was assured.

Governor Alfred E. Smith has decided to issue no statements on national questions until after the two national conventions, it was learned in New York.

Communication

Strong for Gasoline Co-op.

Greeley, Colo., April 22, 1928.

Editor Democrat-Forum: I saw in Democrat-Forum of April 18 of a Cooperative organization to sell gas and oil in Maryville. When I was there in 1927 several asked me about one they have in Greeley, so I thought I might write a few lines that would be of interest. They organized in 1921 on a leased lot with one hand pump and I have watched it grow to a large plant with 1419 members and their surplus is now $80,203.63 and they have paid in refund to members $205,826.08 to Jan. 1, 1928.

I bought a membership when they first organized, when they were only $5.00, and as the plant grew the membership advanced. They are $25. now and a good buy. I don't know how much refund I have drawn; they pay quarterly and there has never been a quarter that I have not got more than I invested. In 1927 they paid a bonus of 25 per cent on the year refund and I had drawn $60, so that made $75, and April 1 I drew $9.45.

I do all my buying there. If you have a tire adjustment they look this tire over and tell you what they think is right and you get the new tire right now. I am strong for the Consumer's Oil Co.

With Best Regards,

will be in our store for these two days to give you expert advice for your figure and the kind of foundation garment you should wear.

She will have a complete line of the Gossard garments from the lower priced ones to the very finest.

It would be impossible for us to carry a stock of garments like this in stock at all times so here is your opportunity for seeing this collection of garments and having a talk with this figure expert.

If you cannot come tomorrow, come Friday.

SOCIETY

Jean Freeland Gets A. A. U. W. Annual Honor

Miss Jean Freeland has been chosen to receive the American Association of University Women scholarship this year. The announcement was made at the meeting of the Maryville branch of the A. A. U. W., last night at the State Teachers College.

Miss Freeland is the highest ranking junior girl at the College.

Mrs. M. E. Ford gave a report of the meeting at Fort Worth, Tex., which she attended recently.

In the International Relations group Miss Frances Bogle talked on "Countries of Latin America in the League of Nations." Miss Katherine Helwig talked on the "Economic Importance of South and Central America."

In the Pre-school Child group Miss Dora B. Smith discussed child pictures and illustrative books and began a discussion of the story. The subject on stories was "What we expect to accomplish in telling a story."

In the literature group Miss Helen Barton talked on Rostand. Miss Elizabeth Best reviewed "Cyrano de Bergerac." Miss Barton reviewed "Chantecler." Miss Minnie James led the discussion on Maeterlinck and reviewed "Intruder," "Interior," "Pelleas et Melisande." Miss Best reviewed "Blue Bird."

A nominating committee composed of Miss Dora B. Smith, Miss Minnie James and Mrs. Virgil Rathbun was appointed.

Bridge Club.

Mrs. O. M. Watkins, West Third street, entertained members of the Tuesday Bridge Club yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Byron Costell made high score, Mrs. Charles J. Kooch, Oregon, who is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Watkins, and Mr. Watkins, here, was an out-of-town guest.

Royal Neighbors to Meet.

Members of the Royal Neighbors will meet at the I. O. O. F. hall, Thursday night. Members are requested to be present.

Give Charivari.

More than fifty friends of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Sturm gave the bride and bridegroom a charivari Monday night. After refreshments were served the party went to Clyde, where a dance was held for them. Mrs. Sturm formerly was Miss Beatrice Hansen.

Merry Mingler Club.

The Merry Mingler Club will meet at the home of Mrs. Henry Jaeger and the Misses Bernadine, Minnie and Teresa Jaeger, tomorrow afternoon.

Family Reunion.

A family reunion was given at the home of J. M. Palmer, Quitman, Sunday. The children were all present: Mr. and Mrs. Roland Palmer and family of Rock Port; Mr. and Mrs. Glen Palmer, Mr. and Mrs. Fern Palmer of Maryville; Miss Lucy Palmer of Kansas City; Miss Lorena Palmer of Blanchard, Ia.; Miss Esther Palmer at home; Frank Palmer who attends school at Chillicothe and Thelma Melton, a granddaughter.

P. E. O. Reports.

Reports of Mrs. G. B. Roseberry and Mrs. J. H. Knox, delegates to the annual state P. E. O. convention in Kansas City will be given at the meeting of the chapter here at the home of Mrs. F. W. Crow, Saturday afternoon. The program to have been given Saturday, will be given at the next meeting of the chapter, it has been announced by Miss Fannie Hope, chairman of the program committee.

For Bride and Groom.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Logan, six miles northwest of Maryville, gave a dinner Sunday in honor of their daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Gagini of Omaha, who were recently married.

The following guests were present: the bride's grandmothers, Mrs. Lizzie Logan of Parnell, and Mrs. A. L. David of Maryville; Mr. and Mrs. George David of Pickering; Mr. and Mrs. Lester David and Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Coffelt of Ravenwood; Mr. and Mrs. Perry David of Maryville; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gagini and Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Gagini and twin daughters, Mary Ann and Betty Ann and Alverda Logan of Omaha; Frank Logan, Dr. P. E. Hood, John Murphy, James Murphy, Raymond, Vern and Betty David, Sylvia Coffelt, Florence, Leland, Doris and Georgia David, Elouise, Emogene, Ilah Jane, Lester Leon and Clyde David.

Dowis-Bache.

Miss Cleola Dowis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Dowis, was married to Richard Bache, April 7, at Pueblo, Colo., by the Rev. Gary, pastor of the First Presbyterian church at Pueblo.

Miss Dowis is a graduate of Sheridan high school. She attended school at Savannah, the State Teacher College at Maryville, and also was a college student at Boulder and Greeley, Colo. She taught in the Nodaway county schools before going to Colorado. She is now superintendent of Junior high school at the Lakeside-Vinland consolidated schools near Pueblo. She is also coach of the Lakeside-Vinland girls basketball team, which won the cup for four succcssive years.

Mr. Bache is a son of B. F. Bache of Phoenix, Ariz., who is a direct descendant of Benjamin Franklin. The bridegroom is a graduate of the University of Colorado, is a mechanical engineer and is now employed by the Colorado Iron and Fuel Co., in Pueblo. After an extended honeymoon trip to Phoenix, and other points in the west, Mr. and Mrs. Bache will be at home after June 1, at 1118 Lake Ave., Pueblo, Colo.

Hold Initiation.

Pledge-initiation was held by members of the Kappa Omicron Phi, honorary professional home economics sorority, at the State Teachers College this afternoon for Misses Helen Slagle, Georgia Ellen Trusty, Elsie Seville, Marie Wagner, Grace Horn and Florence Wray.

Members of the sorority wish to state that unusual conduct on the part of the initiates in the next few weeks is not to be held against the girls. It's all a part of the initiation.

Riley-O'Day.

St. Patrick's Church was the scene of a spring wedding this morning when Miss Marguerite Riley of Cameron became the bride of Leo O'Day, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas O'Day, of Maryville. St. Patrick's choir sang "Ave Maria." A sister at St. Patrick's played the wedding march.

The single ring ceremony was performed at 8 o'clock by the Rev. Father Anastasia of Conception.

The bride was attired in a gown of chin-chin blue flat crepe and carried a shower bouquet of sweet peas. Miss Helen Riley of Cameron, sister of the bride, acted as maid of honor and wore a gown of rose pink. She also carried sweet peas. The accessories to her gown corresponded to those of the bride.

After the ceremony a three-course dinner was served at the home of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas O'Day.

The bride and groom have gone to St. Louis and other points on their wedding trip. They will be at home at Blanchard, Ia., after May 1, where the bridegroom is in business.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were: the parents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. John Riley, John Riley, jr., Miss Helen Riley, Cameron; Mr. and Mrs. John O'Day and daughter, Marie, Mrs. Fred Messbarger and children, Loretta, Francis and John, Mr. and Mrs. Orley Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Orville Harris and sons, Vincent, Gerald and Donald Barton, all of Parnell.

Additional guests at the dinner were: Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Wray, Mr. and Mrs. Ed O'Day, Mr. and Mrs. William Berg, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Tobin and children, Sarah and Marcella, Miss Edna Sturm, Miss Marjorie Morris, Gaynor, and Francis Shriver.

Have Twin Daughters.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Miller, Kipp, Kan., announce the birth of twin daughters, April 20, whom they have given the names, Virginia Lee, and Roberta Jean. Mrs. Miller was formerly Roberta Wells, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Will Wells.

Take Body Tonight.

11-YEAR-OLD BOY OF ELMO DISAPPEARS

Byron Neff Fails to Return to School Yesterday Afternoon —Not Seen Since.

Byron Neff, 11 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Neff, Elmo, went home for lunch as usual yesterday at noon, but instead of returning to school yesterday afternoon, Byron disappeared and no trace of him had been found late this afternoon.

"He acted just like he always did. He never had threatened to go away, we just don't know what to think," the mother said today. Byron has five brothers and sisters.

The boy was in the fifth grade. He attended school in the morning.

Sheriff Campbell has been notified of the boy's disappearance and a description of Byron has been broadcast in an effort to locate him.

Small Girls Give Recital at College

Eight Young Pupils of Mrs. Carrie Margaret Caldwell Play for Students.

A piano recital of eight little girl students of Mrs. Carrie Margaret Caldwell, instructor of piano in the Conservatory of Music at the State Teachers College, was the entertainment at the regular Wednesday morning assembly in the College auditorium this morning. Those taking part ranged from 3 to 9 years of age.

First came little Sarah Caldwell, the smallest and youngest on the program. Her solo was enthusiastically received by the students. She was followed by the other seven in order of increasing size. They were: Betty Blagg, Beatrice Leeson, Mary Frances Doughty, Lillian Townsend, Mary Henderson, Helen Leet and Elizabeth Prather.

C. R. Gardner introduced the performers.

Initiates of College Organization Take Front Seats at Assembly.

Actual initiation of the eleven new members of the "M" Club, organization of lettermen at the State Teachers College, was first apparent when the entire crew of newly elected "pledges" went to their classes this morning in overalls or like apparel.

As assembly began, the entire crew marched in, a man at each end of the line carrying one of the large, College flags, with a white "M" on a green background. A march was made to the front seats of the assembly—that row where students rarely sit.

Motor Bus Case Goes to Jury Late Today

Trial of Wilbur Bean Against Interstate Stage Line Company Near End in Circuit Court.

The $30,000 damage suit of Wilbur Bean of Atchison, Kan., against the Interstate Stage Line company, which operates motor busses between Atchison and St. Joseph, went to the jury at 3 o'clock this afternoon in the Nodaway county circuit court.

Arguments started at 10 o'clock this morning, following the preparation of court instructions, and continued until 3 this afternoon.

Mr. Bean, a former farmer and barber, is suing the Stage Line company for alleged injuries suffered in an accident on a highway near St. Joseph nearly two years ago, when a bus of the State Line company ran into a Ford roadster in which he was riding.

James W. McKnight of Albany yesterday was appointed referee by Judge John M. Dawson to hear the receivership and partition suit of Bert Foster, et al., against Byron Engle, et al.

County Union Leagues Elect Anna Mae Holt

93 Persons Attend County Meeting Last Night at Wilcox.—Cup to Guilford.

Miss Anna Mae Holt of Maryville was elected president of the County Union of Epworth Leagues of the M. E. Churches, South, at a meeting last night at Wilcox.

Ernie Reed of the Centenary church, near Skidmore, was chosen vice-president; Donald Russell, Guilford, seeretary; Kermit Thompson, Wilcox, treasurer. A sponsor will be elected at the next meeting within two months.

Ninety-three young people and leaders were present from every league in the County. Delegations came from Ravenwood, Guilford, Elmo, Maryville, Centenary Church near Skidmore, and Wilcox.

For a third time Guilford won the silver loving cup for good work accomplished in the league. The county union has decided to allow Guilford to engrave its name on the cup.

A reading was given by Lois Mae Shell, a clarinet solo by Marshall Ford, and another reading by Lester Hall. Miss Frances Tapp of Maryville was the principal speaker. Devotions closed the meeting. A supper was served.

Harry Hagan, Tella Hagan, Maxine Holt, Marjorie Sawyers, Eliza Donaldson, Ethel Broadwick, Marie Wagner, Frances Tapp, Minnie Horn, Miss Farmer, Anna Mae Holt, the Rev. R. A. Mitchell, Earl Henderson and T. H. Leet.

Charles F. Bellows Markets First Stock

Car of Hogs Sell at $10 at St. Joseph, While Shorthorn Steers Bring $12.90, Heifers $12.50.

Charles F. Bellows of Maryville, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Bellows, got off to a good start Tuesday when he contributed two loads of livestock to the St. Joseph market, his first shipment of livestock and his first visit to a public stock yards, according to the St. Joseph Stock Yards Journal.

One load of the stock consisted of forty-three head of swine of 258 pound averages which sold at $10. In the other car he had cattle of the Shorthorn breed, thirteen of them being steers of 1012-pound weights which sold at $12.90. Included in the shipment were some heifers which brought $12.50. Mr. Bellows was well pleased with the sale of his stock.

Appleman Brothers of this county also had stock on sale at St. Joseph yesterday.

No definite action has been taken yet by the Board of Education of Parnell to hire high school and grade teachers for next year.

The board was to have made the selections at a meeting last night but postponed action until the first of next week.

Lamkin's Nephew to Debate in England

Charles F. Lamkin, jr., of Keytesville, Mo., a nephew of Uel W. Lamkin, president of the State Teachers College here, will leave Fulton tonight for New York City where he will sail for Europe. Lamkin, a student at Westminster College at Fulton, is a member of the debating team of that College, which will meet with English and Scottish universities for one month and then will make a sightseeing tour on the continent.

Only one term from America oes to England each year to debate English universities and the selection of Westminster this year is a tryout to the forensic standing of the Fulton college. The questions which will be debated on the tour will be: armed intervention to protect property rights, disarmament, free trade and censorship of the press.

Mexico Buys Airport Site.

Mexico, Mo., April 25.—Purchase of a 135-acre farm tract north of Mexico for a municipal airport site was announced here today by Major J. H. Lane, after confirmation of the purchase for $4,500 by the city council. Improvement of the site for use as a landing field will begin after possession is obtained on March 1, 1929, he said.

CONCEPTION WILL BUILD

PLANS FOR ANOTHER LARGE STRUCTURE ANNOUNCED.

INCLUDES GYMNASIUM

Advanced Students to Have Quarters Separate From High School Department.

Plans for erection of another large building at Conception College, Conception, are announced in the current issue of the Morning Star, college publication, distributed today.

The new building will house the college department, separating advanced students from those of high school rank, and will provide a modern gymnasium.

Decision of the Abbey Chapter to increase the capacity of the school was announced by the Rt. Rev. Abbot Philip, O. S. B. For the past three years, it was stated, the existing accomodations have been taxed to their utmost to care properly for the student body, and they are inadequate to meet the request of all applicants for enrollment.

A preliminary step to the enlargement program was taken about two years ago, when a two-million gallon reservoir was constructed which assures a plentiful supply of water of excellent purity.

While deciding on the new building, the Conception college will continue to adhere to its traditional policy of small student groups as better adapted to thorough scholarship and character training, the announcement states.

Three-Story Structure.

The tentative plans, according to the Morning Star, show a three-story brick structure with full basement. Established therein wil be the administration offices, the college class rooms and private living quarters for the college students.

Adjoining the east wall at the center, thus forming a "t", will be a gymnasium with a regulation size basketball court of the usual appurtenances. A bowling alley may also be placed along side of the court. The shower and locker rooms will open out upon the campus at about ground level, being placed at the east end of the gymnasium beneath the playing floor.

This plan gives the recreation hall all the advantages of a separate building with the additional one of convenient location.

The front portion of the building will face the Abbey from the site of the present tennis courts, on a line, running north and south, with the other school building. It will probably be one hundred by fifty feet in dimension. The construction will be guided by the idea of reducing all fire hazard and the architecture will follow the lines of the other buildings. A hangar steel roof is to cover the gymnasium.

Campus to Be Enlarged.

Another project, that will improve the recreational facilities, is also under way. The campus is to be extended thirty feet to the south, to a line a little beyond the first row of apple trees. The dirt from the west bank will be used to fill the lower east end of the strip. Arrangements are now being made to have this work done.

By next September there will be ample room for the football gridiron and also a satisfactory distance between the two baseball diamonds. The location for the tennis courts has not yet been selected.

This and That

Dr. Jesse Miller is proudly sporting a new Panama hat which he received a few days ago from his son, Dr. Jesse Miller, jr., who is stationed at the base hospital on the U. S. government reservation at Canacao, Philippine Islands.

The hat, which is extremely light and of fine quality, came rolled in a circular wood container, apparently of bamboo.

Dr. Miller probably will put it into service on the golf links when the sun's rays get a trifle more intense. Provided, that is, that Mrs. Miller doesn't take it away from him.

Richardson Funeral at Grantham Church

Former Resident of Ravenwood Vicinity Buried Sunday.—Went West for Health in 1914.

Funeral services for Charles R. Richardson, who died in Denver, Colo., last week, were conducted Sunday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at the Grantham M. E. Church, near Ravenwood, by the Reverend Mr. Sparks of Grant City. Burial took place in the family lot in the Jennings cemetery.

Mr. Richardson grew to manhood on the farm of his father, Phil R. Richardson, six miles east of Ravenwood. He was married to Lora Edith Crabb, daughter of the late Robert L. Crabb. In 1914 he was forced to make a change of climate for the benefit of his health. He first went to Roswell, N. M., where he lived for two years and then to Denver, Colo., where he lived until his death.

Mr. Richardson had been one of the head accountants for the Gates Rubber Co., of Denver.

"PLAY BALL" HERE SUNDAY

CRY TO BE HEARD AFTER SEVEN MONTHS SILENCE.

PROSPECTS ARE GOOD

Promising Young Players Trying Out For Local Club.—Other County Teams Start Also.

The umpire's cry of "play ball" again will be heard in Maryville Sunday, after a lapse of seven months, when the Maryville Comets and the Guilford ball club will open the Nodaway county league season here. The game will be called at 3 o'clock on the diamond at the old fair grounds east of Maryville, where all the home games will be played this year.

At the same time Clearmont will open the season at Hopkins, Barnard at Quitman and Burlington Junction at Bolckow. The draft of the schedule for games after May 6, which has been sent to the clubs of the league, will be reported at a meeting of the board of managers here Friday night.

Maryville is starting the season with a club full of fight, composed largely of "young blood." Several students from the State Teachers College are on the roster and it is expected these men will be in school here during the summer months. The club has been practicing three times a week and the fans are invited to attend the practice sessions at the fair grounds.

Henry Buhler may be with the club at times during the year and probably will be with the club when it opens the season Sunday.

Harold Dougan High Scorer in Track Meet

Track and Field Events for Grade and Rural Pupils Held at Barnard Last Saturday.

The Barnard rural and grade school track meet was held at Barnard Saturday under the auspices of the business men of that place. Despite a cold day, there was a large entry list. Harold Dougan was high scorer of the meet, taking four firsts and three seconds.

Capital Amazed as Dawes "Bawls Out" U. S. Senate

EDITOR'S NOTE: This, the 15th in a series of Presidential Campaign Portraits written for Democrat-Forum and Maryville Tribune and NEA Service by Robert Talley, is the last of four articles on the career of Vice-President Charles G. Dawes. Tomorrow will begin the story of Frank O. Lowden.

By ROBERT TALLEY
NEA Service Writer

Washington, April 25.—So far as history records, the only man who ever bawled out the U. S. Senate to its face is Vice President Charles G. Dawes.

Vice President Dawes as he looks in action.

Dawes did it on Inauguration Day, March 4, 1925, when he and President Coolidge rode in together on the crest of the Republican landslide. The outburst was as unexpected as a cloudburst out of a clear sky in the middle of the Sahara desert.

The senators and congressmen were in their long-tailed coats. The justices of the supreme court were there in their flowing black robes. The foreign diplomats were there in brilliant full-dress uniforms, heavy with gold lace and braid. The cabinet members were there, the chiefs of the army, navy and marine corps were there and so was President Coolidge, who had just taken his own oath outside.

Everybody was waiting to hear the formal speech of acceptance by a new vice president, soon to be submerged in four years of obscurity for which this office had been famous.

Dawes began. Quickly he turned to scathing condemnation of the Senate rules. Eyes widened as Dawes gained speed, practically calling the senators a bunch of old fossils for operating under antiquated procedure. Senator Jim Reed, Missouri, snickered and then doubled up in convulsions of silent laughter. Dawes became hotter and hotter, louder and louder. Coolidge looked uncomfortable, the gold-laced diplomats looked at the green carpet on the floor.

For several hours after it was over, indignant senators were busy issuing statements in reply. Jim Reed, when asked what he thought, quoted the old proverb, "It is a waste of lather to shave an ass." Other senators said things equally unkind.

But Dawes, coolly calculating from the first, had won. Newspaper headlines from coast to coast screamed with the vice president's attack on the Senate. That little known and less understood subject of Senate cloture became a national topic. People began to discuss it as they would the weather or their favorite murder trial.

And so, when Dawes later made speeches urging revision of the antiquated Senate rules and curbing of unlimited debate in the interest of legislative efficiency, he faced interested and informed audiences. Nothing has yet been done about it—a senator may speak until doomsday, if his voice holds out—but as the result of Dawes "super-salesmanship" the country now understands.

Dawes entered into the prosaic obscurity of a vice president, his sole duty being to preside over the Senate. Custom does not permit the presiding officer to make a speech, nor does it allow him to cast a vote except in event of a tie.

A short time later the president's nomination of Charles Beecher Warren as attorney general came up for Senate confirmation. The nomination was bitterly contested and the vote was a tie.

Where was Dawes? A senator was acting as presiding officer and the vice president was missing. His vote was needed to break the deadlock.

After frantic search Dawes was found at his home—peacefully taking an afternoon nap. He sped to the capitol in a taxi but arrived too late. Another vote had been taken and Warren's hopes of being attorney general of the United States had died forever.

By one stroke Dawes strengthened himself with the agricultural west and the banking east when he succeeded in inducing senators to pass the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill and the McFadden banking bill. President Coolidge later killed the McNary-Haugen bill with a veto, but that did not detract from Dawes' efforts to achieve its passage.

The conference at which this was arranged was held in Dawes' office.

"I have asked you to come here," said Dawes, "to see if you cannot bring these two measures to a vote. I am not asking—"

A senator arose and obviously started a long-winded speech.

"Sit down!" barked Dawes. "There may not be cloture in the Senate, but there is in my office."

And proceed they did.

Vice President Dawes is wealthy, a heavy investor in public utilities and the Pure Oil Company. For this reason he excused himself from participation in arrangements for a public utility investigation sought by Senator Walsh, Montana.

Beneath the fire and brimstone exterior of Dawes lies a home-loving man whose books, paintings and music are his delight. He shuns as many dinner invitations as his office will permit in order to spend his evenings with his wife and their two adopted daughters—Dana, 15, and Virginia, 13. Their own daughter, Carolyn, is now the wife of a former classmate of Dawes' son, who was drowned in 1912.

The memory of Rufus Fearing Dawes still lives with his father. All through General Dawes' war diary one finds tender references to him, the wistful hope that he might have lived. The monuments that Dawes has erected in his boy's memory are the Rufus Fearing Dawes hotels for working men in Chicago and Boston. There the man who is out of a job can get a clean bed for a dime and a full meal for a quarter.

In the evenings Dawes often improvises for hours on the piano in his home.

Perhaps, in his musings, the vice president dreams of a day when the family circle will gather in the evening round the famous gold piano in the White House after a hard day's work in the executive office with its great circular walls where Roosevelt, Taft, Wilson, Harding and Coolidge have labored.

Who knows?

Russian Army Chief in World War Dies

General Wrangel Famous for Advance of Horse Guards Regiment on East Prussia in 1914.

Brussels, Apr. 25.—General Peter Wrangel, one time commander-in-chief of the Russian white army, died today.

Wrangel gained his greatest fame when he commanded the famous horse guards regiment in the Russian advance on East Prussia in 1914. He gained the crown of Saint George when his command captured two German guns and two enemy platoons in this advance.

At the time of the Russian revolution Wrangel, a baron and member of the old royal circles, fled to Crimea with his wife.

He was captured at Odessa and imprisoned on a destroyer in the Black Sea. Sentence of death was passed.

The baroness, however, circulated petitions among the peasants who interceded with the Bolshevist leaders and Wrangel's life was spared. Subsequently he escaped to the southern Caucasus and rejoined his wife.

Wrangel was given command of the Caucasian cavalry division of the volunteer army and succeeded in leading this army to a liberation of the northern part of his country from the Bolshevist rule.

Drowned in Fording Creek.

Westplains, Mo., Apr. 25.—While attempting to cross the Warm Fork in a wagon with two sisters and a brother, Ernest French, 21-year-old farmer, was drowned. The others escaped.

ISO-VIS MOTOR OIL
STANDARD OIL COMPANY (INDIANA) SERVICE

Records Talk!

Here's What They Say About Iso-Vis!

I bought a five gallon can of Iso-Vis F Motor Oil of your agent at Gypsum, Kansas, and wish to say that it is the best oil I ever used in my Ford. I use my car continuously.
—Olaf Bengtsan, Gypsum, Kansas.

I have used Iso-Vis Motor Oil in my Chrysler Automobile and like it fine. It has given me satisfaction in every way. Have used it now for 1400 miles and it is still holding up good.
—W. G. Keefe, 12561 Third Ave., Detroit, Mich.

Perhaps you would be pleased to know that I found the Iso-Vis [heavy] quite clear and of good body when I had my crankcase drained for a refill after driving 2435 miles. I call that good oil. The car used is a standard six Buick.
—Noah L. Bess, Algoma, Wis.

I have used Iso-Vis medium since December 8th in my Star car, driving about 600 miles a week. I have experienced no starting trouble, and have had perfect motor performance at all speeds and temperatures. I change oil every 1000 miles, and the oil taken out is good enough to use again, as far as lubricating quality goes. Iso-Vis has given me wonderful satisfaction.
—D. C. McCown, 109 N. 13th St., Ft. Dodge, Ia.

These are just a few samples from thousands of unsolicited letters telling what Iso-Vis has done—actual records of performance. They mean more than anything the Standard Oil Company [Indiana] can say about this product. They verify all it has said!

Ordinary motor oil thins out before the car has gone 200 miles. Motorists learned to expect dilution and the trouble it caused. Then Iso-Vis was put on the market—no wonder it was received with enthusiasm.

Iso-Vis is called the constant viscosity motor oil because it keeps its body. It never falls down on the job. It maintains constant lubricating efficiency!

The records of Iso-Vis in daily use talk! They say that Iso-Vis means greater mileage without changing oil—and complete satisfaction every mile. You ought to try it! Iso-Vis "F" for Model T Fords.

GIRL ALONE

COPYRIGHT 1928 BY NEA SERVICE

By ANNE AUSTIN, AUTHOR OF "SAINT AND SINNER"

THIS HAS HAPPENED

SALLY FORD, 16, who has known no other home than the orphan asylum, since she was four, is "farmed out" for the summer to CLEM CARSON, a farmer. Before she leaves the Home, she begs MISS POND, sentimental office worker, to tell her something about her mother. The orphan is crushed to learn that her mother after leaving her at th orphanage never returned to see if she lived or died. Her hopes that there is someone somewhere to love her are gone.

On the drive to the farm, Sally listens to Clem's boasts about his fine farm. They are met with the harsh voice of Mrs. Carson, who calls to Sally to come in at once and get to work. As she leaves the car, arms stacked with bundles, she sees a handsome young man whom she hears called David. In the house she is met by PEARL, the gaudily dressed, over-developed daughter, who warns her, "Hands off David—he's mine." At the supper table that night Sally experiences a new emotion when Pearl suggests to David that they go to a picture show.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER VI

"Sorry, but I can't tonight," David Nash answered Pearl Carson's invitation courteously but firmly. "It would be 'way after nine when we got to town, and we wouldn't get back until nearly midnight—no hours for a farm hand to be keeping. Besides, I've got to study, long as I can keep awake."

"You're always studying when I want you to take me somewhere," Pearl pouted. "I don't see why you can't forget college during your summer vacation. Go get some more hot biscuits, Sally," she added sharply.

Except for Pearl's chatter and David's brief, courteous replies, the meal was eaten in silence, the hungry farmer and his hired men hunching over their food, wolfing it, disposing of such vast quantities of fried steak, vegetables, hot biscuits, home-made pickles, preserves, pie and coffee that Sally was kept running between kitchen and dining room to replenish bowls and plates from the food kept warming on the stove. In spite of her own hunger she ate little, restrained by timidity, but after her 12 years of orphanage diet the meal seemed like a banquet to her.

No one spoke to her, except Mrs. Carson and Pearl, to send her on trips to the kitchen, but it did not occur to her to feel slighted. It was less embarrassing to be ignored than to be plied with questions. Sometimes she raised her fluttering eyelids to steal a quick glance at David Nash, and every glance deepened her joy that he was there, that he sat at the same table with her, ate the same food, some of which she had cooked. His superiority to the others at that table was so strikingly evident that he seemed godlike to her. His pride, his poise, his golden, masculine beauty, his strength, his evident breeding, his ambition, formed such a contrast to the qualities of the orphaned boys she had known that it did not occur to her to hope that he would notice her. But once when her blue eyes stole a fleeting glimpse of his face she was startled to see that his eyes were regarding her soberly, sympathetically.

He smiled—a brief flash of light in his eyes, an upward curl to his well-cut lips. She was so covered with a happy confusion that she did not hear Mrs. Carson's harsh, nasal voice commanding her to bring more butter from the cellar until the farmer's wife uttered her order a second time.

In spite of the prodigious amount of food eaten, the meal was quickly over. It was not half-past eight when Clem Carson scraped back his chair, wiping his mouth on his shirtsleeve.

"Now, Sally, I'll leave you to clear the table and wash up," Mrs. Carson said briskly. "I've got to measure and sugar my blackberries for tomorrow's jam-making. A farmer's wife can't take Sunday off this time o' year, and have fruit spoil on her hands."

While Sally was stacking the soiled supper plates on the dining table, the telephone rang three short and one long ring, and Pearl, who had been almost forcibly holding David Nash in conversation, sprang to answer it. The instrument was fastened to the dining room wall. Pearl stood lolling against it, a delighted smile on her face, her fingers picking at the torn wallpaper.

"Un-hunh! . . . Sure! . . . h, that'll be swell, Ross! I was just wishing for some excitement! . . . How many's coming? Five? . . . Oh, you hush! Sure, we'll dance! We got a grand radio, you know—get Chicago and . . . All right, hurry up! And, oh, say, Ross, you might pick up another girl. Sudie Pratt, or somebody. I got a sweetie of my own. Un-hunh! David Nash, a junior from A and M., is staying with us this summer. Didn't you know? . . Am I? I'll tell the world! You just wait till you see him, and then you'll want to jump in the river! . . . . . Aw, quit your kidding! . . . Well, hurry! 'Bye!"

"Thought I'd help," he said in a low voice, to keep Pearl from overhearing. "You must be tired and bewildered, and washing up for nine people is no joke. Give me the glasses first," he added casually, as he reached for the wire soap shaker that hung on a nail above the sink.

"Oh, please," Sally gasped in consternation. "I can do them. It won't take me any time. Why, at the Home, six of us girls would wash dishes for 300. They wouldn't like it," she added in a terrified whisper, her eyes fluttering first toward the dining room door, then toward the big pantry where Mrs. Carson was picking over her blackberries.

"I like to wash dishes," David said firmly, and that settled it, at least so far as he was concerned.

Sally was trotting happily between table and cupboard when Pearl came in, stormy-eyed, sullen-mouthed.

"Well, I must say, you're a quick worker—and I don't mean on dishes!" she snapped at Sally. "So this is the way you have to study, Mr. David Nash! But I suppose she pulled a sob story on you and just roped you in. You'd better find out right now, Miss Sally Ford, that you can't shirk your work on this farm. That's not what Papa got you for—"

"I insisted on helping with the dishes Pearl," David interrupted the bitter tirade in his firm, quiet way. "Want to get a dish cloth and help dry them?" There was a twinkle in his eyes and he winked over so slightly at Sally.

"I've got to dress. Five or six of the bunch are coming over to dance to the radio music. Did you hear what I said about you?" Pearl answered, her shallow blue eyes coquetting with David.

"About me?" David pretended surprise. "Is that all, Sally? Well, I'll go on up to my room and study awhile, if I can stay awake."

"You're going to dance with me—with us," Pearl wailed, her flat voice harsh with disappointment. "I told Ross Willis to bring another partner for himself, because I was counting on you—"

"Awfully sorry, but I've got to study. I thought I told you at supper that I had to study," David reminded her mildly, but there was the steel of determination in his casual voice.

Pearl flung out of the room then, her face twisted with the first grimaces of crying.

"We'd better wash out and rinse these dish clothes," David said imperturbably, but his gold-flecked eyes and his strong, characterful mouth smiled at Sally. "My mother taught me that—and a good many other things."

A little later, under cover of the swishing of water in the granite dish pan, David spoke in a low voice to the girl who worked so happily at his side:

"Take it as easy as you can. They'll work you to death if you let them. And—if you need any help, day or night," he emphasized the words significantly, so that once again a pulse of fear throbbed in Sally's throat, "just call on me. Remember, I'm an orphan myself. But it's easier for a boy. The world can be mighty hard on a girl alone."

"Thank you," Sally trembled, her voice scarcely a whisper, for Mrs. Carson was moving heavily in the pantry nearby.

Fifteen minutes later, as Sally was sweeping the big kitchen, shouts of laughter and loud, gay words told her that the party of farm girls and boys had arrived. With David gone to his garret room to study, Sally suddenly felt very small and forlorn, very much what he had called her—a girl alone.

The sounds of boisterous gayety penetrated to every corner of the small house, but they echoed most loudly in Sally's heart. For she was 16 with all the desires and dreams of any other girl of 16. And she loved parties, although she had never been to a small, intimate one in a private home in all her life.

She leaned on her broom, trembling, desiring to have a good time fighting with her institution-bred timidity. Then she looked down at her dress—the blue-and-white-checked gingham, faded dull, that she had worn for months at the orphanage. If they should come into the kitchen—any of those laughing, gay girls and boys—and find her in the uniform of state charity they would despise her, never dream of asking her to come in, to dance—

Her hands suddenly gripped her broom fiercely. Within a minute she had finished her last task of the evening, had brushed the crumbs and dust into the black tin dust pan, emptied it into the kitchen range. Then, breathless with haste, afraid that timidity would overtake her, she ran up the back stairs to the garret.

Her cold little hands trembled with eagerness as she jerked her work dress over her head and arrayed her slight body in the lace-trimmed white lawn "Sunday dress" which she had worn earlier in the day on her trip from the orphanage. Excitedly, she slapped her pale, faintly flushed cheeks to make them more red, then bit her lips hard in lieu of lipstick.

When she tiptoed down the dark hall of the garret she found David Nash's door ajar, caught a glimpse of the university student-farmhand bent over a pine table crowded with books.

She crept on to the head of the narrow, steep stairs, and there her courage failed her. The dance music, coming in full and strong over the radio, had just begun, and she could hear the shuffle of feet on the bare floor of the living room. How had she thought for one minute that she could brave those alien eyes, intrude, uninvited, upon Pearl's party? Hadn't Pearl made it cruelly clear that she despised her, resented her, because of David's interest in her?

"Want to dance?"

She had been leaning over the narrow pine bannister, but she straightened then, a hand going to her heart, for it was David standing near her in the dark, and his voice was very kind.

(To be continued)

Sally's first real trouble on the farm comes in the next chapter. It is the result of Pearl's jealousy.

Dr. Barach, one of the attending physicians, informed the United Press that Bennett became unconscious at 9:10 a. m.

"After that," said Dr Barach, "he quietly and steadily passed away."

Commander Byrd, grieving over the loss of his comrade, said that he, together with Mrs. Bennett, Dr. Barach and the American consul, Colonel Dennisson, would make the funeral arrangements this afternoon.

It was understood that Bennett's body might be taken to New York by airplane, with a military escort.

Floyd Bennett Known for Flight to Pole

Epochal Attempt Made With Commander Richard Byrd on May 6, 1926—Held in High Regard.

Floyd Bennett's greatest achievement was with Commander Richard Byrd in their epochal flight from Spitzbergen, Norway, to the North Pole and return. The flight was made in 15 hours and 51 minutes, on May 6, 1926. For his daring and resourcefulness in undertaking the flight, Bennett received a gold medal from the National Geographical Society. It was presented by President Coolidge.

When he and Byrd returned from their conquest of the North Pole, Byrd asserted that Bennett should be given the major share of the credit, and more recently, when Commander Byrd selected his staff for the South Pole expedition, he said:

"Floyd Bennett, who flew to the North Pole with me, will be my first lieutenant. I couldn't go without him. I'll always regret that he couldn't make the trans-Atlantic trip with me because of injuries received from a crash that spring."

Once Navy Mechanic.

These expressions of esteem by Commander Byrd epitomize the high regard in which American aviators held the man who rose from a mechanic in the navy to one of the most daring and successful pilots in the world.

Bennett first became associated with Commander Byrd in 1925, when the latter was placed in charge of the naval section of Commander Donald B. MacMillan's Arctic expedition. The two men became firm friends, despite the gulf that usually searates commissioned and non-commissioned officers. It was Byrd's admiration for Bennett's flying ability that prompted him to choose Bennett as his pilot for the North Pole expedition.

The flight to the Pole, which at that time had been seen by only six men, Captain Robert E. Peary, his negro servant and four Eskimos, was accomplished on May 6, 1926. A cryptic message sent by Bennett to his wife after the adventure had been a success was characteristic of him: "Back from flight over Pole. Safe and well."

Reception Enthusiastic.

An enthusiastic reception was accorded the fliers on their return to New York on June 24, 1926. Bennett received the Congressional Medal of Honor for the exploit as well as the Hubbard medal. He also wore the distinguished service medal.

In the fall of 1926, with Lieutenant Bernt Balchen as his navigator, Bennett made a 8,800 mile lecture tour of the United States under the auspices of the Guggenheim Foundation for the Promotion of Aeronautics. The plane was turned over to the Ford Museum at Dearborn, Mich., at the conclusion of the tour.

Commander Byrd selected Bennett as his chief pilot for the trans-Atlantic trip last spring, but the injuries he had received in an accident during a test flight on April 16, 1927, forced him to a hospital. He still remained there while the flight was made. He had suffered a fractured skull, body injuries and a broken leg, and was not able to leave the institution until July 10.

During the flight of Byrd and his companions across the dreary spaces of the Atlantic, Bennett was allowed to have a radio at his bedside to listen to the reports of the progress of the plane.

Tested South Pole Plane.

When Commander Byrd and his crew returned to New York to be acclaimed by the city's millions, Bennett was among the first to greet them, and came in for a share of the honors.

In March of this year, Bennett tested the new Bellanca plane which has been built for the South Pole trip, making several extensive trips in it with Balchen. One trip included the new gold fields in Manitoba.

One of his friends, in telling of Bennet's exploits, said of the famous flyer:

"He worked steadily when engaged in any undertaking. Not only steady, but religiously. He seldom talked; he just worked."

Bennett has held the rank of naval aviator, non-commissioned since February 1, 1927. He was granted leaves of absence in connection with the Byrd-MacMillan Polar flight, and preparations for the Byrd transatlantic flight.

In Navy During War.

Bennett was born in 1890 in the Virgin Hollow section of Lake George, N. Y. When 7 years of age he went to Warrensburg to live with an uncle. He remained there until becoming 18, removing to Schenectady, N. Y., to take up motor mechanic work. He later operated a garage at Ticonderoga.

He enlisted in the navy in 1917 after this country had entered the war. It was after his enlistment that Bennett nursed ambitions to become a flyer, and in telling of his conception of his ambition he used to explain in his talks over the radio:

"I was a mechanic for two years at the various naval training schools and I paid particular attention to motors and the theory of flight. Eventually I was sent to the Pensacola flight school for eight months. Here my desire to fly was realized."

After winning his pilots wings in the navy he was pilot at the training station at Hampton Roads, later being assigned to the U. S. Richmond as chief machinist's mate in charge of aircraft while the warship was on patrol duty during the daring round the world flight by army aviators.

Churchill to Try for New Decathlon Mark

Philadelphia, Pa., April 25.—Tom Churchill, track star of the University of Oklahoma, will attempt to break the Pennsylvania carnival record in the official American Olympic decathlon tryout at Franklin Field, Friday and Saturday.

Churchill won the Kansas championship, scoring 7384.8526 points.

Fait Elkins holds the American record of 7574.42, while Harold Osborne is the Olympic champion with 7710.775 points.

Prison Sentence to Hit-and-Run Driver

Kansas City, Mo., Apr. 25.—The first penitentiary sentence ever given in Kansas City for a motor car killing, was handed down to Edward E. Partelow here yesterday.

Partelow was found guilty of manslaughter for playing the part of the motorist in the hit-and-run incident here April 1, in which Mrs. Caroline Euler was killed.

Walker and Hudkins Bout Is Sanctioned

Chicago, Apr. 25.—The Illinois Athletic Commission has sanctioned contracts for a world middleweight championship bout between Mickey Walker, titleholder, and Ace Hudkins, Nebraska challenger. The bout will be at Soldiers' Field here, June 21.

Widow of Suicide Sues for Insurance

Kirksville, Mo., Apr. 25.—Suit has been filed here by Mrs. Lonnie Gibbs against the Missouri State Life Insurance Company to collect a $25,000 life insurance policy of her husband.

Gibbs killed himself four days after he had taken out the policy. He was cashier of the Kirksville Trust Company and evidently ended his life, anticipating discovery of a shortage in the company's funds.

Saturating Cat Is Cause of Church Fire

Gasoline on Animal Causes Its Death; Woman Grabs Flaming Pussy To Save Building.

Bellsville, Kan., April 25.—Persons responsible for saturating the fur of a cat with gasoline, causing it to run under the Methodist church and setting it afire, were sought by authorities here today.

The presence of mind of Mrs. W. A. Reese, wife of the pastor, enabled her to save the church from destruction. She seized the cat and, regardless of burns, hurled it away from the church. The cat burned to death.

More Southern Cities Are in Path of Flood

Atlanta, Ga., April 25.—Crests of flood waters that have driven thousands from their homes in six Southern states and caused property damage estimated at $5,000,000 to $6,000,000 moved out of upper reaches of streams and rivers today and threatened new communities.

The lower Alabama valley, the Pearl river and Tombigbee river valleys in Mississippi and the lower Chocawhatchee valley in northwest Florida were in the path of the new flood menace.

The Arkansas and White rivers continued to rise in Arkansas. In northern Louisiana the Ouachita river was at flood stage.

Loss of life, on the basis of incomplete reports, appeared confined to the hard hit Florida and Alabama areas. Six negroes were drowned in southern Alabama. Two were missing from a family that flew Caryville, Fla., as the flood encroached.

12 Feet Above Flood Stage.

Desmopolis, Ala., Apr. 25.—The Tombigbee river, drainage system of west Alabama and eastern Mississippi, was more than 12 feet above its flood stage of 39 feet today and weather bureau officials predicted a stage of 62 feet by Sunday.

Hundreds of farmers have been driven from their homes in Sumter and Choctaw counties, and the waters were gradually widening in Marengo county. Thousands of acres of the richest cotton lands in Alabama were in the path of the flood.

New and Damaging Quakes in Greece

Athens, Apr. 25.—Tremendously destructive earthquakes occurred today in the city of Adrianople and surrounding territory in eastern Thrace.

Constantinople, Apr. 25.—A series of earth tremors lasting 15 seconds was experienced here today. The tremors traveled north and south in vertical movements.

The above dispatches from Athens and Constantinople shift the scene of the recent disastrous earthquakes from the Balkan peninsula to the region along the western border of the Black Sea.

Can't Confirm Killing by Nicaragua Rebels

Washington, April 25.—State and navy department officials were without information today as to reports that an American, George B. Marshall, had been killed and three other U. S. citizens taken prisoner after attacks by rebels on three mines in northeast Nicaragua.

Every effort was being made by the American legation at Managua and by other American representatives in the Central American country to verify the reports. The rebels were said to be holding the mines and to have kidnaped a British subject, J. Harry Amphlett, manager of the La Luz and Los Angeles mines, as well as about 100 Indian workers.

Won't Study Birth Control or Liquor

League of Women Voters Bans Both Questions From Its Program.—Would Outlaw War.

Chicago, April 25.—Birth control and the prohibition question—the two subjects over which the League of Women Voters was expected to find the greatest controversy—will not be included in the program for study of the league during the next two years.

The league last night voted not to place these two questions in the program, after receiving reports from the committees appointed to study the questions.

It was expected that the open convention of the league, starting today, therefore, would run much more smoothly than had been predicted previously. However, the factions which had supported the subjects threatened that they were not through, and it was hinted the subjects might come up again before the convention had ended next Saturday.

The foreign policy committee of the league took a positive stand on a third paramount question—the international movement to outlaw war—and voted to send delegates to both the Republican and Democratic national conventions to lobby for Secretary of State Kellogg's multilateral treaty plan. It was hoped thereby to include an endorsement of the plan in the campaign platforms of the parties.

Teapot Dome Group To Discuss Stewart

Will Determine What Action Should Be Taken in Contempt Cases.

Washington, April 25.—A special executive session of the Teapot Dome committee was called at noon today to determine what action should be taken in the contempt cases against Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the Standard Oil Co., of Indiana, in view of his effort to purge himself.

Opposition is understood to have developed to the course planned by Senator Walsh of Montana, who announced himself in favor of prosecuting Stewart only under the contempt indictment obtained against the oil man in federal court here. He favored dropping the direct proceedings hailing Stewart before the bar of the Senate to answer questions he refused to answer on Feb. 2.

Chairman Nye has taken the position that the committee cannot dismiss the contempt proceedings started by the Senate and that the committee can only report back to the Senate and let that body decide what shall be done.

Stewart told the committee he had received $759,500 of the mysterious Continental Trading Company bonds, but he still professed ignorance of the deal by which the bond profits were made.

Illinois Senate Seat Will Remain Empty

Governor Small Has No Intention of Asking Frank L. Smith For Credentials.

Springfield, Ill., April 25.—The second Illinois seat in the United States Senate will remain empty until the November election, as Governor L. Small has no intention of appointing a successor to Colonel Frank L. Smith, it was indicated at Small's office today.

It was pointed out that Small and Smith have been political allies for years and the Governor has no intention of asking Smith to relinquish the credentials which the Senate refused to accept.

Otis F. Glenn, successful Republican senatorial nominee in the recent primary, has been one of Small's harshest critics in the state senate, and, it was said, his appointment to fulfill the unexpired term was very unlikely.

Guilford High School Stages a "Walk Out"

The student body of the Guilford high school staged a "walk out" today. A picnic lunch in a nearby woods, athletics, and enjoying the sunshine in the open instead of from the classroom made the day complete.

Final Grain Review.

Chicago, April 25.—The bulls started another drive on the board of trade today and all wheat futures soared into a sensational advance breaking all price records for the season. The winter wheat crop scare, combined with sharply higher foreign markets, prompted the upturn.

Corn and oats followed but ran into heavy profit taking and failed to hold their gains.

Wheat closed ⅝c to 3⅝c up; corn, 1c to 1½c up and oats, ⅝c to 1c up. Provisions closed higher.

The wheat pit saw the biggest and fastest market since the specular bull rush a week ago. News was strongly bullish. Expected rains over Kansas and Nebraska wheat fields failed to materialize and upset the calculations of traders who had sold short on the forecast yesterday.

News from the central winter wheat sections was also very bullish predicting a large shortage.

There was some profit taking late in the day but the tone held strong most of the session. Cash wheat was 1c to 1½c up and receipts totaled 13 cars. Export business was estimated at 300,-000 bushels Canadian wheat.

Corn advanced sharply with wheat early in the day but local traders sold heavily on the decline, light receipts of 96 cars, a strong cash market and the bullish influence on wheat were mainly responsible for the upturn. There was no news of importance. Corn advanced ½c to 1c.

Oats were strong in undertone but lost heavily on profit taking. News was bullish, reports indicating serious crop damage. Receipts were 77 cars and the cash market went 1c to 2c up.

The same number of precincts in the Democratic preferential gave: For Governor Smith 33,121; for Former Senator Atlee Pomerene, favorite son candidate, 8,560; for Governor Vic Donahey of Ohio 4,804.

Columbus, O., April 25.—Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover will have majority control of the Ohio Republican national convention delegation, it was definitely established today in almost complete returns from yesterday's presidential preference primary.

Although the Hoover forces lost the tenth Ohio district to adherents of the late Senator Frank B. Willis, they were victorious in 12 of 22 districts and retained a decided advantage by electing their entire list of candidates for delegates-at-large.

The tenth was the last remaining district in doubt and it was not determined until this afternoon that the Willis forces had finally won.

As the results now stand, the Secretary of Commerce will have 31 district delegates and delegates-at-large against 20 for the Willis forces.

Hoover not only won delegate control but in late returns, was polling a preferential vote of more than 200,000, as compared to 80,000 for the late Senator.

Only a few outlying counties remained to be heard from, but these were not expected to affect the totals materially.

Hoover scored heavily in the densely populated areas, particularly in Cleveland where he polled a seven to one majority.

Senator Fess, who will be convention keynoter at Kansas City, was running second among the Willis candidates for delegates at large and apparently was defeated.

Smith—polling a vote unsolicited—ran up a substantial margin against former Senator Atlee Pomerene, the favorite son candidate, and Governor Vic Donahey.

Massachusetts for Hoover and Al Smith

Voters' Choice of Both Is Overwhelming in Election Expressing Presidential Preferences.

Boston, Mass., April 25.—Massachusetts Democrats overwhelmingly endorsed Gov. Alfred E. Smith as their choice for the party's presidential nomination in Tuesday's primary and the Republicans expressed their preference for Herbert Hoover, United Press tabulations showed today.

A general survey showed that Smith captured the entire block of 36 Democratic delegates to the Houston convention and Hoover won at least 30—and perhaps 35—of the 39 Republican delegates.

At least 95 per cent of the Democratic ballots showed the name of Governor Smith written in. Of the other 5 per cent, most of the ballots showed Senator Thomas Walsh of Montana as the choice. A few scattering ballots bore the name of William G. McAdoo. All of the thirty-six delegates elected to the national convention are known to be friendly to Smith.

In the Republican primary, Hoover's name appeared on 75 to 80 per cent of the ballots, the balance being scattered among President Coolidge, Charles G. Dawes, and Frank O. Lowden in that order. A number of Republican ballots, however, bore the name of Governor Smith as the preferred presidential candidate.

Returns for 859 election precincts out of 1603 in the state give the presidential preference: Republican: Hoover, 60,201; Coolidge, 4,217; Dawes, 1,144; Fuller, 903; Lowden, 573; Borah, 58.

Democratic: Smith, 16,702; Thomas J. Walsh, 147; Reed, 38; David I. Walsh, 10; McAdoo, 7; Ritchie, 6.

Pennsylvania Vote Gives Smith Boost

Republicans Show Preference for Hoover—Mrs. Pinchot and Her Opponent Close. Mrs. Pinchot Is Beaten.

Sayre, Pa., Apr. 25.—The bitter campaign for the Republican nomination in the 15th congressional district between Mrs. Cornelia Bryce Pinchot, wife of the former governor, and Louis T. McFadden ended today in a victory for McFadden.

Incomplete returns from every county in the district indicated McFadden would be nominated by a majority of between 1500 and 2,500.

Philadelphia, Penn., April 25.—Gov. Alfred E. Smith today was assured 66 of the 76 Pennsylvania delegates to the Democratic national convention in Houston, all factions and the returns themselves agreeing that he had scored an imposing victory in yesterday's primary election.

In the Republican primary, 79 uninstructed and unpledged delegates were chosen to the convention at Kansas City, but the voters showed a marked preference for Herbert Hoover by writing his name in as their unofficial preference.

The feature contest from the Pennsylvania standpoint was the fight between Mrs. Gifford Pinchot, wife of the former governor, and Congressman Louis T. McFadden for the Republican congressional nomination from the 15th district. Returns early today indicated they were running almost neck and neck, with McFadden holding a slight lead.

Favorite Son Wins Kansas Democrats

Believed Out of Race, Representative W. A. Ayres Is Victor Over Both Reed and Smith.

Hutchinson, Kans., April 25.—Representative W. A. Ayres, native son of Kansas, came from obscurity at the state convention here yesterday to win an instructed delegation.

It had been announced that Ayres would not be a candidate and virtually all the delegates to the national meeting were chosen with respect to their standing on Governor Al Smith or Senator James A. Reed.

Then the resolution committee reported and it was found that Ayres followers had incorporated a resolution instructing the delegation from Kansas to vote for Ayres for president "as long as a majority of the members believe he has a chance of being nominated."

The resolution was passed after backers of Smith swung in with the Ayres men against the Reed forces.

It was conceded generally that the vote will amount to little more than a complimentary one but there was dispute as to which way the delegation will go after they abandon their favorite son.

Hoover Supporters Beaten in Oklahoma

Oklahoma City, Okla., April 25.—Oklahoma's 20 votes at the Republican national convention will go either to Frank O. Lowden or Senator Charles Curtis, Kansas favorite son.

Hoover supporters were defeated at the state convention yesterday in their move to block the instruction of the Oklahoma delegation.

Curtis and Lowden were favored because they were the only candidates in sympathy with farm relief, a resolution said.

The Republicans decided to send eight delegates-at-large including four women, instead of the customary four. They thus will have half a vote each.

Flood Control Issue Before the President

Measure to Coolidge in Almost Same Form as Approved by House, Is Belief.

Washington, April 25.—Congress has placed the Mississippi flood control issue directly before President Coolidge.

While the measure the House passed yesterday, containing some features objectionable to the President, will not go to the White House for several days, it probably will go in almost the same form approved by the House. Senate and House conferees will take the bill over today or tomorrow to adjust differences between it and the Jones bill passed by the Senate.

Conferees can not make the measure any more acceptable to the President. There is no room for this. It was the Jones bill which provoked such a storm of criticism from the White House. If Senate conferees insisted upon their measure, the final form of the bill which went to the White House would be more objectionable to Mr. Coolidge than the House bill. But it is believed the Senate will give way to most of the changes in the House measure made at the insistence of the President.

The adjusted bill should be in the President's hands within a few days. It still was the general feeling at the capitol today that he would sign it. This grew from inclusion in the measure of some amendments Mr. Coolidge had asked.

Senate Democrats Draft Own Tax Cut

Washington, April 25.—The Democratic minority of the Senate finance committee started drafting its own tax reduction program at a closed meeting today.

It is expected to recommend a $300,000,000 reduction and offer its program in opposition to the majority report which will recommend a $210,000,000 cut.

Miss Long Re-Elected to Teach Gill School

Closing Exercises Are Held Last Friday, When Program Is Given by Pupils of School.

Gill school, eight miles southwest of Maryville, held closing day exercises on last Friday. Miss Zepha Long of Skidmore, who has taught the school for the last two years, has been re-elected for the coming year. This is the only school Miss Long has ever taught.

A basket dinner was served at noon to nearly everyone in the district. It was followed by a program by the pupils which was well rendered.

The program:
Song, School.
Exercise, "Welcome."
Dialogue, "Too Much Trouble."
Dialogue, "An Old Man's Advice."
Recitation, "A Lonesome Boy."
Exercise, "The Faithful Clock."
Drill, "Dressed Up."
Recitation, "A Little Boy."
Dialogue, "A Sad Outlook."
Dialogue, "Getting Ready for a Visit."
Recitation, "My Mother."
Song, "Where He Leads Me."
Dialogue, "The Two Aunts."
Recitation, "Pockets."
Drill, "Little Housekeepers."
Exercise, "A Vote of Thanks."

M'Cann School Closes Tuesday With Dinner

Miss Anna Gorsuch Is Reelected Teacher.—Prizes Given Pupils for Attendance and Spelling.

Tuesday being the closing day at the McCann school, the patrons gathered at the noon hour with baskets and a dinner was served, topped off with ice cream. After the dinner a program was given by the pupils.

Two pupils, John Eldon Anderson and Donald McQuinn, were awarded prizes for perfect attendance. Also three prizes were awarded in Spelling. These were awarded to Leo Miller, Leonard Wiederholt and Donald McQuinn.

The teacher, Miss Anna Gorsuch, has been re-elected for the coming year.

'Suicide' Is Verdict on Oklahoma Senior

Norman, Okla., April 25.—Authorities have accepted the story of attempted suicide told by Henry C. Mugler, University of Oklahoma senior and prominent student who was found on the porch of his fraternity house suffering an abdomenal bullet wound Monday night.

No further investigation will be made, unless complications set in, Mugler is expected to recover.

READY FOR CONTESTS

Classwork at the College during the next three days will be at the discretion of individual instructors, many of whom will find most of their time taken by the contests.

The Chamber of Commerce will distribute "Guest Car" signs to automobile owners who will extend the hospitality of their cars to the visitors.

It is a far cry from the original "track meet and declamatory" contests to those which will begin tomorrow, touching upon many activities and continuing through three full days and two nights.

Begin Tomorrow Morning.

The events will begin with contests in representation and in costume design, both at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning. Food contests will follow at 10 a. m.

At 1 o'clock will come the industrial arts contest, and at 1:30 p. m. the contests in bed making, fine arts and grain judging. Preliminaries in dramatics and in tableaux also will be held at that hour if they are found necessary.

The contests in declamation and oration once furnished the only evening program. They grew so that preliminaries were necessary, and finally were relegated entirely to hours earlier in the day, to make way at the night programs for events more popular with the public, dramatics and tableux tonight and music tomorrow night.

Schools entered this year in dramatics and tableaux are Maryville, Trenton and Hamilton.

L. G. Somerville and James Carpenter have been named today on the transportation committee of the Chamber of Commerce.
